Dear Harry:

It is fine and dandy to think you are climbing again after such a streak of hard luck. It is also fine to think you are so honored for work that must have often been tiresome and discouraging.

I think your old friends, and they are still many despite the ravages of years, will be keenly interested in a story of your work and reward and as soon as you can get to it I'll be pleased to receive the information I need.

As you say, Harry Borden is a good scout. He has aided me much in my work of digging up special features for The Press. After many years on the city desk I broke down a couple of years ago, gave up desk work and am now writing specials. There will be none I have enjoyed more than doing your yarn.

Yours

Elias

How shall I use the name "Harral" or "Harry or Harold B."?
