About the Author

Charles L. Sullivan, a fifth-generation Mississippian born December 25, 1942, earned his academic degrees from the University of Southern Mississippi and completed course work for his Ph.D. at the University of Mississippi. A faculty member at the Perkinston Campus of Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College since 1967, he has served as chairman of the Perkinston Campus Social Studies Department since 1977.

Sullivan is the author of The Mississippi Gulf Coast: Portrait of a People (1985) and Hurricanes of the Mississippi Gulf Coast (1986). In collaboration with Bourbon Hughes he produced Valor Remembered: 20th Century War Dead of the State of Mississippi (1996). In 2002 he completed a monumental 608-page volume titled Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College: A History, 1911-2000. His other writings include a number of scholarly monographs, journal articles, and many newspaper and popular magazine offerings. Together with colleagues Winfred Moncrief and Doug Mansfield, he wrote and produced four documentaries comprising MGCCC's award winning "Magnolia Series"-- Henry Jeton Tudury: Mississippi's Most Decorated Doughboy (1988); Gathering at the River: South Mississippi's Methodist Camp Meetings (1990); Beauvoir: Memorial to the Lost Cause (1991); and No Greater Love: Roy Wheat in Vietnam (1992). Sullivan was named Biloxi Historian of the Year in 1987.

In 1989 and again in 1991 he received the National Teaching Award from the National Institute for Staff and Organization Development at the University of Texas and was twice named Perkinston Campus Instructor of the Year (1976 and 1990). The Mississippi State Legislature honored him with its 1992 HEADWAE award as the Outstanding Faculty Member for MGCCC. In 2000 the Mississippi Humanities Council selected Sullivan as the MGCCC (Perkinston Campus) recipient of its annual Humanities Teacher Award.
