

You may find it individually interesting to dig a bit into this subject. Or you may find someone there who already has information and photos of interest. I know much of the old story there is obscure, just as it is in the other ancient historical centers but we find individuals who have been collecting for years and they show interest in helping in this work.

Best wishes for you, and Nogales, and all things there for the New Year. You have the most interesting border city between the Atlantic and the Pacific.

Sincerely,
