

Now that the Old Spanish Trail is practically completed and in good condition to be travelled from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts, there remain two projects yet to accomplish. One is the beautifying of those sections which have been constructed and permanently established so that there be no waste of effort or money.

There is so much interesting history, and there are so many opportunities in the territory of the Old Spanish Trail which should be compiled in such a form and distributed which would
